F. L. GONNON WRITES TO REVIEW FROM TRAINING CAMP IN ENGLAND

Otterm, Kent, England
August 5, 1915

Dear Mr. Shortland—Just a few lines which you may find interesting for your paper to let the folks know more or less what we have been doing since we left Calgary. There is so much to tell that we have not the time to spare to write full details to all.

On arrival in England we were stationed at Shorncliffe where we remained for five weeks doing bayonet fighting and big rifle marches which quickly got us into shape after our sea trip, we were close to the sea and had several bathing ponds, which were great fun, although one poor chap from another Battalion was drowned.

We then marched about seventeen miles to a place called Lydd where we took our military course we did nothing but shoot for three weeks. Lydd is situated in the famous Romney Marsh and we were had it wet too and did most of our shooting in drenching rain, nevertheless the shooting was very good and the boys all had a fair share of a German up to about eight hundred yards. While at Lydd the Canadians were inspected by Premier Borden at Shorncliffe so we had to march back there and be inspected and return to Lydd in two days which was pretty fast work. When we arrived at Shorncliffe the night before last the storm clouds were supposed to sleep in the open but as the rain came down in torrents we could not do so, most of us were crowded into tents as many as fifteen and sixteen to a tent. But Forbes and myself however, went down to Folkestone where we spent the night in a private house where the people were very kind and we were turned up for the Review more or less dry. On this occasion there were twenty thousand men reviewed and it was a wonderful sight.

Having finished our undertake we changed camp to Otterpool where the 2nd Division is encamped and we are engaged in Divisional training. The day we changed camp was the hottest day I experienced this summer and as we had eighteen miles to go, you may imagine how warm we felt. When the sweat runs off your head and how into your eyes and up to your nose, you can hardly see and the getting is warm as we were. The heat came to a climax when about two miles from our new camp a terrific thunderstorm overtook us and we were so wet to the skin. It was an awful change but the boys only laughed and sang the louder, our transports were delayed on the road and we had to wait out in the wet for nearly two hours until the tents arrived and I can tell you that camp went up in a second time when they did come and after some hot tea we were sent back all right at home again. (We don't have much fun but we do see life.)

Yesterday we were inspected by the Hon. Bonar Law, Canadian Minister of the Interior, and the elements there were forty thousand Canadians at the review, we spent four hours pushing up to him at 11:30 a.m., then marched out to camp the first and the second day being long of men ever seen in this southern country, but once again he took care to us in the shape of a terrific thunderstorm. Scarcely a drop of rain falling that we had to ground our rifles in case the lightning would catch the bayonets, and the clouds literally burst over us, we had to wait and after various suggestions to "turn the top off," "to have a rain," "to turn the top off," etc., the massed bands struck up the old favorite, "Hail to the King," and the boys sang "We are now" and if you could have heard all the thousands of voices going in the chorus it would have made your blood tingle, and the harder it rained the louder we cheered, then the march past started and line after line of troops passed the saluting breeze as straight as a stick and last but not least the 2nd Canadian Division comprising the 27th and 28th from Winnipeg the 29th from Vancouver B.C. and the 31st from Alberta, this Western Brigade is acknowledged to be the best in the 2nd Division and we are seen proud of the fact. Bonar Law referred to them as the finest body of men in England today. The Daily Mail on the Review referred to the wonderful marching, the square jaws and the clean determined look in the eyes of the men and the steadiness and cheerfulness under most trying conditions. We are to be received by the King on the 15th of this month and as our bayonets have been sharpened we are now near the eventful day when we will cross the channel it will be ten months next week since we left old Clareholm and I can tell you the most of us are feeling homesick for the "good old west."

It was most surprising news to us that Albertus had gone dry and all the other fellows think they might have left things stand until they returned and had a little say in the matter. It is decided by a bunch of city fellows while all the MEN were out of the country. And to the Methodists who seek to stop the sending of cigarettes thought to be shot up to town, these stay-at-homes imagine them selves out on a blazing hot route march or sitting in a cold driving rain with nothing to eat or drink and the sole comfort of a cigarette and that is on this, God knows what it will be on the other side of the channel. (There are any of those people in Clareholm, I am sure, and they think and what they are doing when they seek to stop the soldiers only comfort and when they are sitting by the coal firesides in the coming winter to think of the poor soldier sitting in his dugout waiting for the smoke he himself cannot buy and which he depends on you to send and to the people and that like a bunch of phantoms, if you don't want your children to smoke well and good, but don't use your influence to spoil other fellows pleasure.

I was up in London with the Boy Scouts of the Canadian Division and we were inspected by Gen. B. P. and were given a fine time at the review. I was with the Canadian Scouts and myself went down to Hastings last Sunday and found the old castle with its dungeons very interesting, there were big crowds of people on the holiday and I was pointed to see the number of skeletons that were lying round on the prom and the ruins and I would have given a lot for a check at each of them, we missed our train and had to motor home 42 miles which cost a whole flock of this English money we arrived home at 6:30 a.m., not a most enjoyable holiday. Camp life gets so tiresome that it is good to get away for a day. We have seen Ed. Gray several times but have not heard of any of the other boys. Bob Larkin is still the minister of the band, and among those of us offered commissions is Pat Callaghan, but we have all decided to stay together and do the thing that we are doing. The most popular bugle call is the mill call, the boys in Canada don't want to get flogged if they don't get all the way through it, they would rather be flogged work jolly hard and have mighty little time for writing. So write all you can and help keep us in touch with the west.

Just a last word about the Y.M.C.A. and the fire work it is doing for us, they have big tents in all our camps and do everything possible to make us happy.

I will close with best regards and kind thoughts from all the boys to the folks in Clareholm and district.

Yours most sincerely
F. L. GONNON

THE LITTLE LAND

The men who thought for England
When Peace was on the earth
Saw her as a Behemoth
A god of monstrous girth;
-But to those who fight for England
To them appeareth she
A small carved jewel of a land
No larger than a human hand,
With fields of emerald, and a band
Of sapphire for a sea.

We boasted once in England,
When pride and peace were ours,
Of vast dead piles whose brick and stone
Rose tall as Babel's Towers.
Now round the men of England
Are shells that burst and scream,
And they that think on her again
Grow cold to death and dead to pain
Because of one green winding lane
Or one blue secret stream.

For we that dreamed in England,
Like levered men we were,
That longed to light the windows out
Wide to the wind and air;
But now that England's peril
Draws nearer like a vice,
We draw our swords and strike out hard,
Being indeed like men who guard
A tiny box of myth or past
Whose worth is past all price

—Geoffrey Howard.

Western Canada, its deprivations fortunately have not attained the extent experienced in other regions of the continent and in order to be able to advise the farmers in the western provinces the Entomological Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture have investigated this insect.

The results of this investigation, which was conducted by Mr. Norman Cridle for several years, have not been published by the Department in Entomological Bulletin No. 11, in order to make the insect known to the injury of the insect in its insect stages, and being thus forewarned, they will be in a position to prevent losses that are liable to occur when the insect is present, as control methods are described. In addition, the Western Wheat Stem Maggot has been studied and described. This is a native insect that has turned its attention from native to cultivated grasses on which it can become a serious pest. Its habits, life history and the means of control are fully described in the same bulletin, which is entitled "The Hessian Fly and the Western Wheat Stem Maggot in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta." The bulletin is distributed and may be obtained free of application to the Chief Officer, Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

For information regarding insect pests should be addressed to the Dominion Entomologist, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

SCHOOL TERM OPENS

School opened last Monday with the large classes and under most favorable conditions. The morning work showed an extra large enrollment for the first day. There have been a few changes in the staff some of the changes have been mentioned before. Miss McInnis, of Calgary, who possesses a first class certificate, who has not been mentioned before is taking charge of grade six and seven and is assisting in the languages. Principal J. A. Davidson is already assuring the school board, since a Group coming in contact with the pupils and staff that there need be no anxiety as to the outcome of the year's work, but they can fully expect as good results with his present staff as we had this year and perhaps better if such a thing is possible. While Mr. Davidson was speaking in reference to the staff and the ability of the pupils we feel safe in saying just as much for his work. Mr. Davidson has come to Clareholm very highly recommended and we believe that he has already shown that such recommendation was greatly deserving him. With such a man as he at the head of any public institution it could be impossible for it to be a success.

Under Auspices of Ladies' Patriotic Aid

While the wet weather of last week spoiled the plans of the Garden Fete which was to have been held on Thursday evening, to some extent, and a few were disappointed at first, but the success with which the whole thing was carried off, in the LO.O.P., hall, soon made everyone forget that there had been any disagreement of plans. About eight thirty the guests began to gather at the hall where there were about a dozen tables waiting them and about as many pretty much dressed in the latest Japanese fashion ready to serve them the good things to eat, which consisted of sandwiches and tea, ice cream, cake, candies etc.

The decorations all conformed to the dress of the ladies, Japanese lanterns illuminating the light and the two booths from which the refreshments were served, each having for a roof a large Japanese parasol. Altogether the effect was most pleasing.

The music was furnished by Messrs. McLaren and C.R. Newton, of Macleod accompanied by W.R. Shanks on the cornet. While refreshments were still being served Miss A. Gardner of Macleod, in her usual pleasing manner rendered two vocal solos: "Somewhere a voice is calling" and "Land of open glory." Mr. Newton sang "In Tokio" and "Down in Chintown" both selections being in perfect harmony with the decorations. Special comments have been given on the manner in which Mr. Newton rendered the waltz "Ceilidh" on the violin, which was most perfect.

It must not be forgotten that Mrs. F. Chamberlain, wife of the Great Queen, who in one corner of the hall was for the small sum of ten cents each, reading the future of the guests.

The refreshment had been served and the floor was cleared and a dance was given which lasted until about one o'clock. The ladies were very successful in taking $31.20 and with their expenses of $31.70 they still had the nice little sum of $51.50 which went to the patriotic fund.

And now God has called him home, how sweet—even amid the mourners grief to contemplate such a death, truly the words of the Psalmist do outline such a scene when he said, "Mark the perfect man, behold the upright, the end of that man is peace." Full of faith, full of service, self-filled with self denial and radiating love, surely as did the apostle of the Gentiles, he fought the good fight, he had finished his course and unswervingly he kept the faith and certainly he has received the brightest crown of Eternal Life.

"Oh faithful servant of thy Master: Oh Lover of thy fellow men, who has been returned to Mother earth, but thy soul hath soared on pearls pinions to thy Father God. Thou art growing and our brightening faith, all the future is radiant, we see thy spirit growing and expanding to ever widening circles in the lives of men which it has touched and helped and verily we feel that thou being dead yet speaketh.

After all, the grandest phenomenon of the Universe is a great life, strong purpose, and a long, long after physical attributes and material achievements have been forgotten will the memory of the spirit of that life shine on our shadowed life ways and encourage our failures and give us the nobler outlook, the vision splendid that sees in the rugged pathways of life the shining way to the goal.

An Appreciation of the Late Rev. J. M. Harrison

I am one of the many, who knew J. M. Harrison and who sincerely mourn his death.

From an acquaintance of over twenty years with this grand old pioneer of the Methodist church in the west, I have learned to admire his character, his principles, and his great heart. So that it may seem to me just that I should say this little tribute on his tomb, sanctified as it should be beneath the flowers that grew in his garden and a pure prayer.

He was a self made man, no early endowments, meagre chances for education, improvement, and an abundance of hard work with very little monetary remuneration, were some of the difficulties he had to contend with, but possessed of a great intellect, a strong character and a generous heart, he was able to overcome them, and finally some of his own, he became one of the most pleasing, persuasive and successful preachers in the west.

He was a man who might have given himself to the lecture platform or the Lyceum Hall and achieved a brilliant success; with his personal charm, his executive ability and his capacity for administration, he could have entered the arena of politics and found and honored place in the councils of his country, for he was unswervingly and by birth a leader of men, but God called him to the ranks of the Methodist ministry and with a willing obedience he heard the call and through a long life of ardent, unremitting toil he stored in his chosen place to do his masters' service, to help and uplift his fellow men.

With a rare humility, a practical sympathy, a cheerful optimism and a heart so kindly, like the master he served, he stretched forth the helping hand, gave the cheering word, the practical service that placed many a man's foot on firm ground and with renewed and clearer faith started him on the upward journey, and today throughout this west of ours there are no men higher in position, in commercial and political trust, that owe their start-upwards and the foundation principles of their characters to our brother, Harrison; who has so recently passed beyond.

Throughout the trying times of rapid transition in the west, "The Good Days," when men were money mad, and righteousness, morality and character were counted as dross in the old consuming thirst for wealth, when even preachers themselves were in some cases abandoning "principles for pocket," this man's principled discipline of the meek and lowly One, stood strongly for the old fashioned principles of his Master and with rare power reasoned with men of righteousness temperance and judgment to come, thus exerting a steadfast influence the full and lasting results of which may never be known.

And now God has called him home, how sweet—even amid the mourners grief to contemplate such a death, truly the words of the Psalmist do outline such a scene when he said, "Mark the perfect man, behold the upright, the end of that man is peace." Full of faith, full of service, self-filled with self denial and radiating love, surely as did the apostle of the Gentiles, he fought the good fight, he had finished his course and unswervingly he kept the faith and certainly he has received the brightest crown of Eternal Life.

"Oh faithful servant of thy Master: Oh Lover of thy fellow men, who has been returned to Mother earth, but thy soul hath soared on pearls pinions to thy Father God. Thou art growing and our brightening faith, all the future is radiant, we see thy spirit growing and expanding to ever widening circles in the lives of men which it has touched and helped and verily we feel that thou being dead yet speaketh.

After all, the grandest phenomenon of the Universe is a great life, strong purpose, and a long, long after physical attributes and material achievements have been forgotten will the memory of the spirit of that life shine on our shadowed life ways and encourage our failures and give us the nobler outlook, the vision splendid that sees in the rugged pathways of life the shining way to the goal.

Such was the life of the friend, to whose memory this tribute is offered humbly, unassuming (like the Master himself) he went about doing good, he was a man of peace, and he will dispel the gloom from many a darkened pathway, cheer many a fainting spirit on the lonely narrow upward and onward and bring many of us nearer to our God, long after his earthly presence has been forgotten.

J. T. Norman,
Parkland.

Poultry Breeders' Opportunity

Canada in past years has imported more poultry and more eggs than she has exported. Yet her production has materially increased, but it has failed to keep pace with the demand. In 1914 only 1,022,000 eggs were produced, compared with 61,490,241 dozen to 12,071,041 dozen, but the consumption increased from 11% per capita to 17.5%. That is to say the individual fondness for eggs had increased over fifty per cent. The population grew in those twenty years from 1841 to 1914, according to the census, from 4,832,229 to 7,249,588, an increase of 2,417,359, and the egg production mounted up 58,551,743 dozen. In spite of this fact and although the exports fell about to zero 2,375,040 dozen had to be imported. In the same time the number of poultry in Canada grew from 12,000,000 to 20,548,721. Here again, although the increase was close upon thirteen million, the imports exceeded the exports in value to the extent of $111,696.

Eggs over exports reached the virtually enormous total of 11,150,108 dozen, while of poultry in 1914 we exported in value $266,570, but we imported $408,390, a difference against us of $141,819. These figures striking as they are, and almost impossible as they seem, are yet official, being taken from Pamphlet No. 7, of the Poultry Division, of the Dominion of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, entitled, "The Egg and Poultry Situation in Canada, with notes upon the possible effect of the war upon the Development of the Industry," by W. A. Brown, B.S.A., M.S., and can be verified on application for the pamphlet to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

The statistics given in the pamphlet are both phenomenal and interesting. No other articles of food have shown such an increase in popularity. At the same time prices generally have increased and been well sustained. Mr. Brown does not undertake to explain the phenomenon, but contents himself with proving that it is so and that the increase in every particular is common to all the provinces. He also gives particulars of imports of poultry into Great Britain, which in 1913 amounted in value to $5,411,854, of which Russia supplied $1,546,923; the United States, $669,800; Austria Hungary, $475,757; Italy, $410,892; Canada, $249,472; Egypt, $139,380; Holland, $122,738; Belgium, $108,208; Norway, $88,500; Germany, $58,045; and Canada, seemingly nil.

From the foregoing figures and the general condition of things in Europe Mr. Brown arrives at the conclusion that Britain will this year be short of eggs and poultry to the amount of a million and a half of dollars, or of eggs alone to the sum of one hundred million dozen. Evidently Canadian producers should endeavor, therefore, to produce this year more and better eggs and poultry than ever before.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

Having just returned from New York and other large Eastern cities, and in connection with my other business, I had the opportunity to visit some of the Largest Studios. I am now prepared to give you the very latest in every line of Photography.

Having procured a new process, I will Develop Films for 10c per roll of six exposures, and 3c per print and upwards, or by having one dozen prints from one or more exposures, I will develop the films free of charge.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS
Any person who does not understand the working of their Kodak, I will be pleased to give them instruction FREE of charge.

We finish all work promptly and give you every satisfaction. Mail orders our Specialty.
Yours for business,

JOHN L. EDLUND

BUTTER WRAPPERS

Must Be Printed or Branded
According to New Dairy Act

Our facilities for the printing of Butter Wrappers are equal to any found in the province. In prices, considering the quality, we are the lowest. Unless the cheaper grades are desired our prices are always for wrappers made of the best grade vegetable parchment paper, printed with Special Brine Proof, Non-poisonous Butter Wrapper Ink. We can supply the cheaper and imitation grades but we do not recommend them because they do not give the best satisfaction.
